

Formed in 2001 at the Royal College of Music, the prizewinning Sacconi String Quartet has played all over Great Britain and Europe to great acclaim.

In 2007 they decided to embark on their most challenging project yet and set up The Sacconi Chamber Music Festival in Folkestone.

The SCMF consists of concerts of world-class chamber music performance and dynamic collaborations intermingling with community outreach work. What the Sacconi wish to achieve in Folkestone is a breaking down of barriers between people and classical performance. With this in mind the Sacconi take chamber music into schools, refugee centres, prisons and residential care homes, bringing music to those who might not otherwise come or be able to come to concerts.

This glorious celebration of chamber music and these vital outreach projects are what you, as Friends and Patrons, help make possible.
